

The School of Law

Department of Law

The mission of the Law School of the European University Cyprus is to provide education for the students at all levels of their studies. At the undergraduate level two programs are offered: an LLB in Greek Law and an LLB in Cypriot Law. These programs are following all the modern developments in the fields of law and the jurist science in local and international level. The European University Cyprus Law School also offers continuous training through professional seminars and other educational programs. Respecting the international standards, the Law School promotes research through the conduct and organization of conferences, the offer of post-doctoral positions for research, and the participation in joint ventures for the composition of research projects funded by national and EU funds.

The shared vision of the European University Cyprus Law School is to provide knowledge to the students, the acquisition of specific skills and the shaping of completed, modern jurists. In addition, through the programs of the Law School there is a constant link between studies and the broadening of perspectives of the professional career of the students with focus on but not limited to legal professions (such as a career in international organizations, in the EU institutions, diplomatic corps, etc.). Above all, the vision of the European University Cyprus Law School is the profound education of responsible citizens and professionals, ambassadors in their relevant fields.
